China

Top: Mornings in China began with exercises and the rising sun.
Above: Several 'tourists' from Goshen College pause on the steps of the Heavenly Temple, one of the many historic sites in Peking.
Above right: Newly built by Sichuan Teachers College to house its first group of American students, the SSTER's dormitory was affectionately dubbed by Chinese students, 'the Panda Palace.'
Right: In November, the SSTers were honored by a visit from the U.S. Ambassador to China, Leonard Woodcock and his wife, Sharon.

Above left: Onlookers watch with curiosity as the 'American' friends take the lead in a game of basketball. Although the Chinese are very sports-oriented, they have a common saying: 'Friendship first, competition second.' Top right: Student-teacher relationships often developed into friendships throughout the months in China. Above: SSTers toast to the completion of a ten course meal. Ganbei! (Bottoms up!) Left: In addition to studying Chinese language, the SSTers taught English to students who ranged in age from 15 to 35.

Right: Melody Yoder,
Yang Kuoching,
Judith Davis.
Below: Arlin Hunsberger, director of International Education, greets the Chinese guests upon their arrival in Chicago.

Think First

It starts with the proper attitude. Like how a bank treats people and conducts its business. That's why we believe in treating our customers with courtesy and consideration. You needn't go anywhere else for anything to do with your financial management. Everything is right here at First National Bank: checking, savings, safe deposit, credit cards, trust services and all sorts of loans. We've got what it takes to make things happen for you at First National Bank, Elkhart.
